

Ian Younger, CFE
Director of Commercial Operations,
Investitec

Ian originally trained as a Legal Investigator 30 years ago before moving into industry, reaching board level in a number of different commercial roles. As well as working in-house and in merger and acquisitions, he has worked overseas as part of an international due diligence team.

Ian qualified as a Certified Fraud Examiner in 2003 and set up Investitec, specialising in commercial fraud - workplace, occupational and management fraud. Believing prevention to be better than the cure Ian has developed a Fraud Risk Management programme for corporate organisations which covers Governance, Risk Assessment, Prevention and Detection, and Investigation and Recovery, for which he acts a consultant/facilitator.

While working in industry and commerce Ian worked for a number of training companies which delivered both traditional tutor-led training and technology-based training. As a result Ian has both developed and delivered courseware across a wide variety of subjects, most recently on Fraud Risk Management and investigation related training. He is also a regular speaker and presenter at local business events and seminars.

Apart from being a member of the Association of Certified Fraud Examiners, Ian is a member of the Association of British Investigators as well as a member of the Institute of Chartered Management. Ian is also acts as an external contractor to a statutory regulator for whom he undertakes conduct investigations, and in a voluntary capacity, is a Hampshire School Governor.
